"Topaze," RKO pleture now playmends tiself on many counts. In the first place, it stars John Barrymore. In the second, it is a very smooth and brilliant version of the play that was an outstanding success in Paris and New York. Again, it is comedy-brittle, fresh, sparkling, and utterly nonsensical comedy—a thing Barrymore does so splendidly and so seldom.

"No More Orchids," Carole Lombard's second Columbia picture, with Walter Connolly, Louise Closser Hale, and Lyle Talbot, opens its two-day run Saturday at the Kentucky theater.

The story, of the same name, by Orace Perkins, was published in Liberty magazine last summer, and was adapted for the screen by Keene Thompson. Walter Lang di-

"Red Haired Alibl," the novel by Wilson Collison, has been adapted for the screen by Tower Productions and will be presented Saturday and Sunday at the Ben All theater. Theodore von Eltz and Merna Kennedy play the leading roles with a strong supporting cast including Grant Withers, Purnell Pratt, Huntley Oordon, and others. According to advance notices from previewers, Christy Cabanne, the director, closely followed the original story. In so doing he has turned out a realistic picture of life in the blg cities and its mirrored reflections in the smaller ones.

Irene Dunn brings another excellent characterization of the principal role in "The Secret of Madame Blanche," Metro - Goldwyn -Mayer production opening Sunday at the Strand. In the suporting casts are Lionel Atwill, Phillip Holmes, Una Merkel, and others. During the recording of this drama of 1890 and today, a new problem beset the sound engineers. This disturbance has been solved by "rustle elimination." The difficulty was encountered in ball-room sequences, with the women wearing long trailing gowns, fluffs, and puffed sleeves popular in the '90s.

"Luxury Liner," a film relating the drama in the lives of passengers aboard a magnificent ocean liner during the six days of its voyage from Europe to America, will be presented on the screen of the Kentucky theater beginning Monday.

Back doors, windows, and fire George Brent, Zita Johann, Vivescapes are always open to freshmen-which is lucky on account of lenne Osborne, Alice White, Verree Teasdale, C. Aubrey Smith, and Frank Morgan head the "passenger list" in the film. B. P. Schulberg produced it for Paramount.

Coal . . . silk stockings . . . meat -and the telephone

Keenly aware of the problems of business, large and small, Bell System commercial men are constantly devising special telephone plans to customfit service to the user's needs.

For example, a plan they worked out for a coal distributor helped him to contact 50% more clealers. A manufacturer, using a telephone selling plan, sold 700 dozen pairs of hosiery through one Long Distance call. A great meat packer handles complex sales and distribution problems efficiently with the aid of planned Long Distance and private wire services.

Systematic telephone plans are helping many users to build husiness - cut costs - handle collections - unify nationwide organizations - increase profits. And Bell System men are seeking still other ways to make the telephone more useful.

OBSERVATIONS

CASUAL

By THE KEVHOLER Well, judging from current and indercurrent conversation and chatter, a new editorial staff may introduced to The Kernel and its perspiring-pardon, please-aspiring young reporters fifteenth of this month. No it isn't definitely settled, but we hear that will happen and we hope that the new staff will know something about semi-weeklies and how make them.

There was NEWS in this old paper Tuesday! Did you notice it? In getting children across streets, it is informative to read the entire take the required exams in order It is informative to read the entire paper: you may miss a lot by overooking a few columns.

The Staff of the Kampus Kat wishes to make humorous apology for the change in publication date. The merchants are hard to locate and difficult to interest in the ads that are necessary for the book. We'll have one for you; never fear. All we ask is GET YOUR COPY.

Simga Beta Xi is aimost Sigma Phi Epsilon now! As you know, they began their trek into the national field at 2 p. m. yesterday. The entire affair may be completed by midnight tomorrow and there will be some very important young men on this campus of ours for a little while.

Class laughs: An English professor kindly assigned a play to his class, saying (a inducement for the reading therof), "This play has a very cvident strain of humor hroughout."

Upon reporting for the next class period, a much disappointed student dryly informed the professor of the humor in the play by saying, Yeah, there was a strain of humor in it-I nearly strained my neck looking for it."

Here is a slight warning to those who never start studying until the middle of the last quarter: Exams, final exams, are exactly two months and three weeks from this datei Yessir—they begin on Thursday, May 25, and end Thursday, June 1. Better get busy!

If the weather is surprisingly fair and warm, here's something that may shatter dreams of June moons in March. First to 4th-Variabl period in South and East. Fair to cold. Fifth to 8th—Rain period in Southern states. Watch this column for weather predictions. They will be a regular feature.

The U.S. Constitution went into effect on March 4, 1789. That must be the reason why all good Presidents are inducted into office on that day of the month. (Okay, that is all changed now.)

If there are any historical dates and events that you would like to know without bothering to look them up, write your question on plain paper and address The Key-holer, Box 3353, U. K. Station.

Then there was the fellow who bragged continually about the wear-ing qualities of his only suit. It seems that his story followed this sequence: "Begawd, 'tis a good suit! I ain't wore out but four pa'rs o' trousers an' two vests an' three coats since I had it!"

question, please. Have those, who would fain explode with humorous feature articles and editorials about thought dead. Thirty seconds after the Kampus Kat, ever tried to sell a physician injected methylene blue anything at all? Have they ever Urias opened his eyes and shouted made decent effort to sell ads for a humor magazine?

If they have, their stories are understood; if they haven't, take a tip from one who has. Expound that effervescent wit in other directions and for Pete's sake hop on the people who won't buy the ads, not the poor sucker who's doing his best to sell them. Understand?

That old team certainly took the select netters into the old pen and proved their superiority with all manner of ease and totals of points in victories. That's an old Kentucky custom, so it appears, to win the not win all crowns given by the Big 13. This wasn't so hard, was it? Hold that stride!

It has come to the attention of this writer that, on one small page not so much as one laugh. Nay, not even a weak smile to clear the wrinkles off one's worry-ridden taking the papers themselves.

For a good example, try this one south corner of your red, rosy lips. Certainly, one will discover Oxford University directors once comic incongruity, but where, oh-

Experiment Station Tour Is Revelation To Frosh Student

One of the revelations of my school year occurred on my first trip to the Experiment building. This is a 20 year old structure of three stories, fronting Limestone street, at Washington. Viewed from the outside it has a slumbering, almost deserted look, (at least so it seemed to my eyes that day I entered it in search of copy). Seldom during the day is anyone seen entering or leaving it. As a matter of fact I always had the impression that it was more or less in a state of disuse.

This attitude was immediately changed upon my entrance, for to my mlid surprise I walked into a veritable beehive of industry. Practically all the many doors that opened off the long corridors on the first floor led into busy offices wherein could be seen from one to five workers. On the ground glass windows of the doors were the names of the many departments. The real surprise came after climbing the stairs to the second floor. Along one side of a long corridor are the glass display cases of the department of entomology. In them, (in a state of preservation are almost every conceivable inhabitant of ground and air from a full-

Opening on the other side of the uilding are experiment laboratories. They contain more equipment than seems possible to gather into ne room. There is a greater aweinspiring miscellaneous array of test tubes, thermometers, vials rooked glass stems, flasks, morters, pedestals, Bunsen burners, mercuries, rubber hoses, gaivanometers, and electrical apparatus than was to be seen in the weird aboratories of Mr. Jekyl, Doctor X, Frankenstein, and Chandu.

Working in this bewildering atmosphere are the men of science discussing subjects ranging from the depression, to the relative possibilities of growing Quack grass on Taking everything as a whole the work of the experiment station is not only important but prodigious. The group of laboratories are pro-nounced by the Department of Agriculture to be one of the best among the 48 experiment stations in the United States. More than 200 young tions of improved home and farm practices, and extensive investigations are carried on in soll improvement, crop production, disease and insect control, marketing, reforestration, and others too numerous to mention.

A summary of the work of the experiment station impresses upon one that the Experiment Station is one of the most important departments in the University.

about 250 feet of sail. Dr. Stewart began working on his boat during Christmas vacation and is building it without any assistance. He has rigged up a long tin pipe which he fills with water and heats with gas burners until steam is generated. A rubber inner tube is piaced on the end of the pipe and the boat rib, one end of which is clamped to the frame of the boat, is put in the tube. When the rib gets hot, he quickly jerks off the tube and ciamps it to the rib of the boat. Dr. Stewart is building the boat entirely of oak and tide water red T. Dun cyprus. He is riveting all the nails in 1889. and it will be necessary to fill 4,000 nail holes with wood plugs. It is an extremely flat bottomed boat. So far he has not decided what some of the most outstanding men he is going to name it, but he is of the country.
